Ice Breaker

Game of cooperation!

As a class, try to count to the highest number possible. However, only one person can say each number, so if two or more people say the same number, restart. Have the teacher start with one and go from there. Try to get to 10, then 20! It's harder than it seems. Good luck!

November Career Focus

Monday November 28th there will be a series of career speakers here during Homeroom

Our speakers include:

Monday 28th: Hospital Physician

Are you a budding doctor? Do you have an interest in medicine? This is a great way to find out about a career in general medicine and working in a hospital, and what it's like to study to become a doctor.

Tuesday 29th: Graphic Designer

Are you creative? Do you like art or design? This is a chance to hear about one type of job in the creative field that includes designing brochures, logos, magazines and helping with advertising campaigns.

Wednesday 30th: Engineer (tech research)

Perfect for those of you that are interested in STEM or enjoy solving puzzles and problems. Our speaker has worked in Bluetooth technology, made sensors for fuel injection cars, went searching for a painting hidden in a wall in Florence, developed technology to fingerprint babies and helped develop faster tests for Covid!

Thursday 1st Dec: Satellite Engineer

Another fascinating STEM career. Find out what it takes to develop and design satellites as well as coordinate and oversee the manufacturing.

Friday 2nd: Business Person

Curious to hear about careers in the business world and what options there are? Our speaker has over 20 years experience in corporate America and worked on lots of projects involving management consulting, supply chain, purchasing/procurement, program management, and global commercial operations.

Joke of the day:

Did you hear about the mathematician who's afraid of negative numbers?

He'll stop at nothing to avoid them.

Do you have any questions?
